ABSTRACT

A building surface having therein at least one electrical outlet having thereover an outlet cover. The outlet cover has an inner surface facing the electrical outlet and an opposed exposed outer surface. The exposed outer exposed surface has an esthetically pleasing surface finish or treatment and the adjacent building surface has a matching or complementary exposed outer surface finish or treatment so as to make the appearance of the outer exposed surface of the outlet cover blend with the appearance of the building surface.